Years later, Carter is a middle-aged man, working as a janitor at his old gym. He's overweight and out of shape, and he's given up on his dreams of ever fighting again. But when his old trainer, Mickey, shows up at the gym, he convinces Carter to give it one more try.

Carter is hesitant at first, but Mickey's belief in him gives him the confidence he needs to step back into the ring. He starts training again, and soon he's back in fighting shape. But Carter's comeback fight is not going to be easy. His opponent is a young, undefeated fighter who is hungry for a title shot.

Carter knows that he's the underdog, but he's not afraid. He's been through too much in his life to give up now. He's fought his way back from the brink of despair, and he's not going to let anything stand in his way.

The fight is a brutal affair, but Carter never gives up. He takes a beating, but he keeps fighting. In the end, Carter wins the fight by a knockout, and he regains his heavyweight championship.

Carter's comeback story is an inspiration to us all. It shows that it's never too late to achieve our dreams, no matter how old we are or how many times we've failed. If we never give up on ourselves, anything is possible.
