

Kanzashi Tutorial: How to Make Kanzashi Fabric Flowers

Kanzashi are traditional Japanese fabric flowers that are often used to embellish hair accessories, clothing, and home décor. They are made from a variety of fabrics, including silk, cotton, and satin, and can be created in a wide range of shapes and sizes. Kanzashi are relatively easy to make, and with a little practice, you can create beautiful and delicate flowers that will add a touch of elegance to any project.

Materials

- Fabric (silk, cotton, or satin)
- Scissors
- Needle and thread
- Glue (optional)

Instructions

1. Cut a circle of fabric. The size of the circle will determine the size of the flower. For a small flower, cut a circle with a diameter of about 2 inches. For a larger flower, cut a circle with a diameter of about 4 inches.
2. Fold the circle of fabric in half and then in half again. You should now have a quarter-circle of fabric.
3. Fold the two bottom corners of the quarter-circle of fabric up to the center point. Press the creases with your fingernail.

4. Fold the two top corners of the quarter-circle of fabric down to the center point. Press the creases with your fingernail.
5. You should now have a square of fabric with four petals. Bring the two bottom petals together and stitch them together at the center point. Do the same with the two top petals.
6. Turn the flower over and fold the two bottom petals up and over the two top petals. Stitch the petals together at the center point.
7. Repeat steps 6 and 7 to create additional petals. The number of petals you create will determine the fullness of the flower.
8. Once you have created all of the petals, stitch them together at the center point. Be sure to secure the thread well so that the flower does not come apart.
9. If desired, you can glue a bead or other embellishment to the center of the flower.
