

Saving the Bill of Rights: A Call to Action

The Bill of Rights is the first ten amendments to the United States Constitution. It was adopted in 1791 to protect the rights of individuals from government overreach. The Bill of Rights includes some of the most important freedoms that we enjoy as Americans, such as freedom of speech, freedom of religion, and the right to bear arms.

However, the Bill of Rights is under attack today. Some people argue that the First Amendment's protection of free speech goes too far, and that it should be limited in order to prevent hate speech or other harmful expression. Others argue that the Second Amendment's right to bear arms is outdated and that it should be repealed in order to reduce gun violence.

These attacks on the Bill of Rights are dangerous and must be stopped. The Bill of Rights is essential to our democracy, and it protects our most cherished freedoms. We must all do our part to defend the Bill of Rights and ensure that it remains the cornerstone of our Constitution.

Here are some things you can do to help save the Bill of Rights:

- Educate yourself about the Bill of Rights. The more you know about the Bill of Rights, the better equipped you will be to defend it.
- Speak out against attacks on the Bill of Rights. When you hear someone talking about repealing or amending the Bill of Rights, speak up and defend it.
- Support organizations that defend the Bill of Rights. There are many organizations that are working to defend the Bill of Rights. Support them with your time, money, and voice.
- Contact your elected officials. Let your elected officials know that you support the Bill of Rights and that you want them to defend it.
- Vote for candidates who support the Bill of Rights. When you vote, choose candidates who have a strong record of defending the Bill of Rights.

The Bill of Rights is a precious document that protects our most cherished freedoms. We must all do our part to defend it and ensure that it remains the cornerstone of our democracy.

The Bill of Rights

Ratified December 15, 1791

Article I

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Article II

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

Article III

No Soldier shall, in time of peace be quartered in any house, without the consent of the Owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

Article IV

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

Article V

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger, nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any Criminal Case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

Article VI

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining Witnesses in his favor, and to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defence.

Article VII

In Suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise reexamined in any Court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

Article VIII

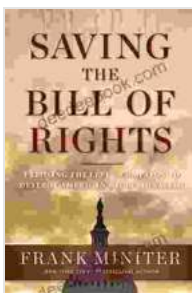

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

Article IX

The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

Article X

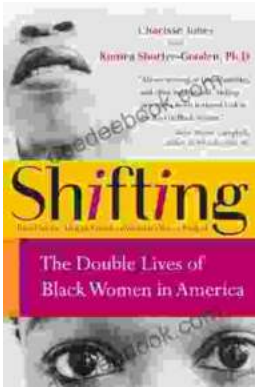

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.
